

Did you know that before I had a little sister, I got everything I wanted. I never had to share one thing, especially the TV remote.

Just last week, I was in the middle of watching an awesome football game. Right when someone was diving to make a catch, the screen suddenly switched to baby elephants singing the ABCs! Lili had gotten her grubby little fingers on the remote.

When I tried grabbing it back, she screamed her head off.

"MINE! MINE! MINE!"

This is what happened next...

