

“Let’s head to the city centre,” said Frank. “There are masses of great places to see in the city, and the party doesn’t start until 6 o’clock.” Ash had a plan. “I’m just going to print that copy of your uncle’s music,” she told them.

They were all excited to climb up the Eiffel Tower. “It’s as tall as an 80-storey building!” read Ted. The city was spread out below them like a map. Frank held up his uncle’s map. “Let’s see if we can match this to the real thing.”

Frank tapped on the box. Suddenly, the lid popped open! Inside was a strange piece of metal. Another piece of the brooch!

Ted was distracted by a figure outside the window. "It looks like our shadow is making his departure," he said.

The three of them gazed at the new brooch piece. What was it? This piece looked as if it had legs, which meant the brooch was definitely going to be a creature. A kind looking woman named Penny approached them.

"I'm holding a concert at the musical instrument museum tomorrow. Will you come and play at it?"
